THE STOCK MARKET.

A General Decline All Along the Line.

THE YOUNG KING OF SPAIN,

Bad Treatment of Buffalo Bill's Indians.

A Panicky Market.
By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The flood of alarming cables from London and Paris, predicting disastrous markets there this week caused a panicky feeling in the stock exchange here. Long before the opening, the brokers tried to make sales of stocks but could not find buyers, and as soon as the signal for the beginning of business was given, no offers were made, but every bid no matter at what price, was at once filled. This selling caused the Manhatten elevated to fall from 100 to 92, a decline of 8 per cent.; Western Union fell 5½, and other stocks, with the exception of Vanderbilt's, fell from 2 to 6, and there were no buying orders in many of the specialties.

The Wall-street stock market this morning showed the utmost demoralization and following the lead of London figures, opening prices were extremely low. The declines since Saturday afternoon were the largest ever seen over night, and the losses of fractional amounts with few exceptions drops from 1 to 3½ covered nearly the whole active list. There was more of a panicky feeling than has been noticed at any time during the present decline, and stocks were thrown over in the most reckless manner, causing a most feverish and unsettled market but with a steady decline in value. Even after the heavy opening, further declines of from 1 to 4 per cent were scored, the most prominent movement being a drop in Manhattan which after opening fell off 4 per cent at 96 retired 4 per cent farther in the first few minutes trading. Other notable losses of 3 per cent was in Western Union, 2½ in Pullman, and almost all active stocks, material amounts. The trading reached enormous figures, but while the bottom seemed to have dropped entirely out of the market, there came a more quiet feeling toward the end of an hour, and some stocks actually recovered a portion of the early loss. The market however, remained in an extremely feverish and unsettled condition and at 11, while less active, it was weak at or near the lowest prices for most of the stocks.

The Evening Post's financial article says: "The panic in the stock market continues this morning in about the same temper as on Friday and Saturday, the declines ranging from 1 to 6 points in the first 15 minutes business. Some very astute people regard it as significant that Manhattan Elevated and Western Union were important factors in the depression of all other prices. Whether the reported holdings by Wanamaker, who was a scheme for the postal telegraph in opposition to the Western Union, have any manipulation of Western Union which was quite apparent, it was impossible to say, but it looks as though it had."

Nevertheless, the panic received a fresh impetus from London this morning. All stocks opened there at from ¼ to 1¼ lower than they closed here on Saturday, the latter being Union Pacific. Money was higher in London at noon, and all the great banks of Europe appeared to be grabbing for the diminished supply of gold, some of which has gone to Spain and South America.

At noon money was tight, with no offers and 15 bid. After 11 o'clock the heavy pressure was removed from the stock market to a certain extent, but stocks continued to come upon the market and prices continued to decline. The Grangers, the Villards and New England were the chief sufferers in the decline. The market displayed no recuperative power up to noon, when business was arrested by the death by appoplexy of James Struthers, a member, on the floor of the exchange, when the market was active at the lowest prices of the morning.

The Pacific Mail bore the banner for weakness, and with a drop of 2¾ touched 35¼. The downward movement was then met with a check, and while there was less animation, as is usual when the pressure is removed, the whole list rallied materially, and before an hour the most active stocks were brought up to within about one per cent. of the opening figures. At 2:15 the market was dull and quiet.

At 3 o'clock the stock market had maintained a moderate business in the last hour, and prices continued to advance and gains of ½ to 1⅛ were scored.

Later, however, sugar, which had been nearly neglected during the early portion of the day, came to the front with a sharp drop from 57 to 51½, and the general list was affected to some extent. The market finally closed active but weak.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Jay Gould was asked this afternoon to give his views regarding the great fall of prices in Wall street. Gould said:

"There is, of course, as anyone can see by looking at the prices, a very great depression, but there is no doubt the market would have righted itself if the trouble in London had not come up. How much further they will go, I do not know. I only know that anyone who has the courage to buy now and the patience to wait will make money. So far as I know anything about the different properties, especially those that I am interested in, they are all right and there is no reason for the present low prices. I suppose six months from now we shall look back upon these prices, and, comparing them with the prices then, will say 'How ridiculously low they were.' History repeats itself. I have seen within the last few days very good evidence of the amount of money going into Wall street to buy stocks, principally not on a margin, but outright. This amount is likely to increase, and when it gets so that buyers are more numerous than sellers, the market will turn. The railroads are all doing very well. The large movement of freight now going on is being carried at better rates and all the roads have a better understanding with each other than for many years."

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Stocks are weak to-day. At 12:30 p. m. everything was lower. Canadian Pacific was off 13-4, St. Paul common, 31-8, New York Contral 21-4, and others smaller amounts.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The markets in the Board of Trade this morning did not respond to the weakness in stocks in New York and London. The sentiment among the traders was to the effect that prices for grain and provisions were low enough for a trading basis, consequently resisted any further depression.

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Stocks opened in a feverish and demoralized condition; first prices being 1¼ to 1½ lower than Saturday's closing.

At 2:20 the market was more settled, and from the lowest, Atchison is up 1 point and Union Pacific ½.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 10.—The Bank of Netherlands advanced the rate of discount from 3 per cent. to 3½.

Brutal Treatment.
By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Painted Horse, one of the Indians from the Red Cloud agency, with Dr. Carver's show in Europe, arrived here on Saturday, and to-day he made a long written statement. He charged both Carver and Buffalo Bill with great cruelty toward the Indians under their charge. Painted Horse said he was repeatedly tied up until he could endure no further suffering; that he was fed upon "stinking meat" and other things wholly unfit for food; that his money was taken from him and when he asked its return he received only $5. He said the other Indians were also shamefully treated and frequently fired upon and badly wounded. They were permitted to have all the whisky they wanted, and when under its influence they fought among themselves.

The statement has been forwarded to the Secretary of the Interior and Indian Commissioners.

SAN JOSE (Cal.), Nov. 10.—A conspiracy to burn a building for the insurance has been unearthed by the officers, and John Aiken, Nat Gordion and Charles C. Branson are now under arrest. Aiken is a saloon-keeper with a stock worth $200 and insured for $1,800. He made an agreement, it is stated, with Branson, his barkeeper, to burn the saloon for $200. Branson informed the insurance agents and Roberts, Austin and Darby and an officer were given possession of the knowledge.

On the advice of the District Attorney it was concluded to let the fire be set and the building burned about half down. It was the property of James Phelan, and the loss was $500. The agreement between Aiken and Branson was overheard by two concealed witnesses and it is probable that Aiken will be convicted. The other losers were the Young Men's Christian Association, $200; Fletcher, auction house, $500; and R. H. Hines, grocery, $100—all insured.

A Wealthy Man Murdered.
Special to the GAZETTE.]

MERCED (Cal.), Nov. 10.—John Ivett, reported to be the wealthiest man in Merced county, was murdered near Snelling last night. The particulars have not yet been obtained.

LATER.—News reached here this morning that the body of John Ivett was found near his home on the Merced river horribly bruised and mangled. His head was beaten to a jelly and his brains were scattered for several feet. He ate supper in a farm house and had started for his private residence, which was upon a hill about a hundred feet distance. The assassin must have done his bloody work just as Ivett stepped upon his porch. The murdered man was 71 years of age. His young wife was in San Francisco. There is great excitement throughout the neighborhood and people are on the farm in crowds from miles around.

A Railroad Law Suit.
By Associated Press.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Hon. John M. Thurston, General Solicitor of the Union Pacific, arrived from Omaha this morning to take testimony in an injunction suit brought by his corporation against the Northern Pacific.

Last spring the latter road refused to accept freight from Tacoma and Puget Sound points, whereupon application was made in the United States Court Court at Portland for an injunction compelling it to take such traffic as the complaining line saw fit to offer.

In the preliminary trial a victory was gained by Thurston, and he is here now to cross examine the witnesses whose testimony is being taken in behalf of the defendants.

Silver Purchases.
By Associated Press.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Six hundred thousand ounces of silver were offered and purchased at the Treasury Department as follows: 100,000 ounces at $1,0299; 50,000 at $1.31; 100,000 at $1.032; 50,000 at $1.037 and 50,000 at $1.0373. The amount of silver purchased at the mints during the week ending Nov. 8, was 275,889 ounces. The total amount purchased for this month, including the purchases at the mints and to-day's purchases at the treasury was 2,180,889 ounces.

Grecian Politics.

ATHENS, Nov. 10.—The Chamber of Deputies was opened to-day by the King in person. In a speech, his Majesty said the members of his Cabinet were convinced of the expediency of returning to the electoral system, based on the old laws.

[Canvassing the Vote.
Special to the GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10—The Board of Election Commissioners began the official canvass this morning of the vote cast at Tuesday's election. The returns from the first precinct of the 29th Assembly District were first opened, and it was found that there was a discrepancy between the returns and the tally sheet of one vote for Governor and two for Supervisor.

A warm discussion arose as to whether the Board should correct the tally sheet, or figure out the changes after the total vote was counted, or throw out the returns from that precinct. The question of throwing out the precinct was forthwith rejected on a vote and that of laying the precinct over until the full commission was present was carried.

The second precinct showed the vote for Governor to be correct, but one candidate for Supervisor was credited with ten votes more than the returns showed.

Union Pacific Matters.
By Associated Press.]

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—President Adams of the Union Pacific says, "there is no foundation for the reports that the Union Pacific and Northwestern alliance will be broken, at least while I am president." The Union Pacific, he says has no floating debt to cause it any trouble. The construction of the Portland and Puget Sound railroad has been provided for independently of the Union Pacific, and an announcement concerning this will be made soon. The Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf has no floating debt except a minor matter of some old coupons for which its bonds will issue to the Union Pacific.

A Train Robber Suicides.
By Associated Press.]

JACKSON (Miss.), Nov. 10.—Joe Jackson, one of the Rube Burrows gang, confined in the penitentiary for train robbery, whose trial was to have begun this morning, suicided by jumping from the third floor of the corrider to the ground, a distance of 60 feet. His neck s broken. Jackson provided himself with a large knife and when the officers unlocked the cell door he rushed out and ascended to the upper floor where for some time he defied them. Finally the officers closed in upon him, when suddenly he plunged from his lofty perch to the brick floor.

Rube Smith, also an alleged train robber, is now on trial.

Crop Reports.
By Associated Press.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The November returns to the Department of Agriculture of the rates of the yield per acre, make the average for corn, 19.9 bushels; potatoes, 57.5 bushels; buckwheat, 14.5; hay, 1.20 tons; tobacco, 718 pounds. The corn crop makes the smallest yield reported, except that of 1881, which was 18.6. It is 83 per cent of the average of the last ten years and only 73 per cent of last year's crop. The decline of the last decade is not due to the fertility, but to unfavorable meteorological influences.

Money In Politics.

The GAZETTE has come to the conclusion that a large proportion of the human family are criminals, either in thought or deed, and only lack the opportunity of doing something that would forever brand them as such. It is led into this belief by seeing men who occupy a high place in the nation and business world putting up money to debauch the people at an election.

If men will so far forget themselves as to buy votes in order to gain public favor would they not sell out if it was to their advantage to do so? The crime in the eyes of the law is just the same. It would simply take more to "influence" a man in a high station in life than it would the scum of society. Where $20 would buy a vote for a candidate it would take all the way from five to fifty times that amount to buy the man who purchased the votes that elected him. A man selected by the people to make laws for our government should not be the first to break them. As long as the purchase of votes is allowed with impunity honest merit counts for nothing, for the rich men get the position while the poor man, although possessed of merit and ability, gets left. Still we do not know that Nevada is any exception to the rule, for money is corruptly used at elections in nearly every State in the Union. The people every five or ten years become so thoroughly disgusted with boss rule that they rise in their might and snow the bosses under for an election, and then become luke warm and careless as to their interests in governmental affairs, and the first thing they know the bosses are up and busy and carry everything by storm, and the scums of society, through use of money in the hands of men who should be above such methods, rule the roost, and after the election the tax-payers grunt a little but submit to the wrong done them with a degree of patience that is surprising. The great danger to our form of government is the making of foreign born paupers citizens of this great Republic, whose only ambition is to get a twenty-dollar piece for their vote on election day.

THERE was open buying of votes in the streets of this town on last Tuesday. Both parties resorted to it. There was paid as high as $40 apiece for straight votes. None sold for less than $10 each. It is estimated that over 200 votes were sold in this place alone. Who says the Australian system of voting is not needed in Nevada? —[Eureka Sentinel.

All good citizens of Nevada will watch for the passage of the Australian ballot system bill this winter with much interest. A similar law should have been enacted many years ago.

SENATOR Gorman of Maryland, says that if the Democrats are cautious and conservative they may expect a long lease of power. General Grant said they could be depended upon to do the wrong thing at the right time. They have two years for making mistakes before the next general election.

A MAN who buys his way into public favor is shorn of much of his usefulness. He commands neither the respect nor confidence of the mercenary class of citizens nor the lovers of pure government. He is looked upon with suspicion by all good citizens.

MCKINLEY has a right to feel proud of his campign. He came within about 200 hundred of beating the Democratic gerrymander which involves nearly 3,000 majority against him. Two years of his bill will give him his district again if he wants it.

TOWED BY A 'GATOR.

A Thrilling and Dangerous Ride on the Tail of a Saurian.

David Yarborough owns an orange grove and an alligator farm on the St. Johns river, in Florida, where he spends his winters. When Yarborough bought this place, five years ago, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, he issued orders to his tenants that no one should be allowed to shoot alligators on the river at that point. He wanted them to grow and multiply until there were enough of them to furnish exciting sport. Not an alligator was killed on the place until last winter, when Yarborough took a party of friends down to the farm for a month's fishing and hunting. All along the river which bounded one side of the farm alligators were found in abundance, and shooting them was the favorite sport of the party.

One day Yarborough and his friends were out on the river in a small boat to try their luck fishing. They were very successful, and about sundown started home. As they approached the boat landing a huge 'gator was seen lying on the bank. Three shots were fired at him, but none of them reached a vital spot, and the alligator made a dash for the water, going straight toward the boat. The boat was within ten feet of the bank and the water was shallow.

The big saurian, in his mad dash for deep water, ran under the boat and overturned it. All the occupants were thrown out on the side next the bank and scrambled ashore except Yarborough. He fell the other way and struck the water right by the side of the alligator's long tail. Involuntarily he grasped the tail of the saurian, and before he fully realized what he was holding to was drawn out into deep water.

The 'gator did not go to the bottom, but seemed to be making for the opposite bank of the river. Feeling something on his tail he began to lash the water into foam, throwing Yarborough around like he had been a piece of cork. Realizing that he was now in deep water, and being a poor swimmer, Yarborough held on for dear life and shouted to his companions on the bank to come to his rescue. He was thrown astride the alligator's tail, and leaning forward clutched it with both arms as a drowning man would grasp at a life-preserver. The alligator increased his exertions to rid himself of the heavy incumbrance, and about the middle of the river Yarborough was thrown off, and at the same time received a heavy blow on the head which almost knocked him senseless.

His friends on the bank had righted the boat as quickly as possible and were pulling to his rescue with all their might. He managed to keep afloat until they reached him, when he was dragged into the boat more frightened than hurt. Next day Yarborough instructed his tenants to allow any one to shoot alligators who wanted to. He had had all the fun with them he wanted.

THE SLATER LEGEND.

A Secret Revealed to a Cotton Manufacturer in a Dream.

An interesting centenary will be celebrated next December at Pawtucket, R. I., where Samuel Slater, on the 21st of December, 1790, virtually began cotton manufacture in this country, although previous efforts had been made. Slater, says Harper's Weekly, was a pupil of Arkwright, and as the English law forbade the communication of models of the cotton-spinning machinery to other countries, Slater, trusting to his memory, reconstructed it under a contract with William Almy and Smith Brown. But for some time he could not recall a small but essential part of the process, and the tradition is that in a dream he returned to England, examined the machinery, found what he wanted, and upon awaking completed his work successfully.

A recent article in the Evening Post alludes to this story. But many years ago Mr. Slater himself related the circumstances to a gentleman in this country, who often repeated it in his family, from whom we have it. After long labor, working secretly, with the aid of one man only, Slater thought that he had put the machinery in running order, and invited a few gentlemen interested in the enterprise to see the happy result of his toil. Proud and excited, he essayed to start the machine, but it did not move. In vain he tried, and, mortified and grieved, he dismissed his friends, assuring them, however, that he should certainly discover the difficulty.

But he was deeply discouraged. All the day and night he pondered and examined and tested and tried to move the machinery. But still it remained motionless. At length, heart-sick and weary, he leaned his head against the machine and fell asleep. As he slept he heard distinctly a cheerful, friendly voice, saying: "Why don't you chalk the bands, Sam?" He started up, broad-awake, and knew at once that a slight friction in the working of the machine was what was wanting, and again summoning his friends, he saw in the smooth action of the jenny the triumphant result of his work. It is a pleasant story, and the Slater legend is not an invention, unless Mr. Slater deceived himself.

Never judge a person hastily. Even the dog in the manger may have been a nervous animal that needed rest and quiet.

If you must leave footprints on the sands of time, let your toes point in the right direction. Too often it happens that one's footprints abide as accusing witnesses.

There are many forks in the road to a success, and the wise man will not rely on guessing to find out which way to go when he comes to a bother.

Both in art and in practical life one should avoid a blind worship of the extraordinary; we too often bestow admiration when only curiosity is called for.—Century.

Malaria

Is believed to be caused by poisonous miasms arising from low, marshy land or from decaying vegetable matter, and which, breathed into the lungs, enter and poison the blood. If a healthy condition of the blood is maintained by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, one is much less liable to malaria, and Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured many severe cases of this distressing affection.

A Wonderful Medicine.

"For malaria I think Hood's Sarsaparilla has no equal. It has kept my children well right through the summer, and we live in one of the worst places for malaria in Marysville. I take Hood's Sarsaparilla for that all gone feeling, with great benefit." MRS. B. F. DAVIS, Marysville, Cal.

Break-Bone Fever.

"My daughter Pearl was taken with dengue (or break-bone) fever 2 years ago, and my friends thought I would lose her. I had almost given up hope until she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. She took four bottles in four months, and gained 15 pounds. I thank Hood's Sarsaparilla for giving her back to me restored to health and strength." JULIA A. KING, Sherman, Texas.

Arthur Love, Manager Love's Funny Folks Combination, writes: "After a thorough trial and convincing evidence, I am confident Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption beats 'em all, and cures when everything else fails. For sale at 25 cents per box by Shoemaker & Co.

Fryer. Sold by Wm. Pinniger.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS.

Nevada Lands Much Sought After for Wheat Growing.

The Board of Trade held its regular meeting yesterday. In discussing the proposition to encourage the Nevada farmer to devote new land to the cultivation of wheat and other cereals, H. H. Beck, one of the proprietors of the Riverside Mills, said: No part of the earth can compete with Nevada in the quality of wheat she produces, and he said the quantity was equally as good. The speaker said there were not a few instances when Nevada's lands produced from 65 to 70 bushels to the acre, and that the average was about 35 bushels per acre. He said that was

A GOOD SHOWING

When taken into consideration that Ohio did not produce more than 13 bushels, and that the average through out the United States was only 15 bushels. He said Nevada's bright days were at hand.

The question of what we shall do with it after we raise it was answered by the speaker saying, that until we produce enough to supply our selves it was useless to talk. The country east of the Sierras raises only wheat enough to keep the Riverside Mills busy for eight months in the year. The capacity of the mill could be doubled if sufficient wheat could be had. The mill now makes 55 barrels of flour a day and the California mills ship over the mountains 100 barrels a day. The farmers on the Humboldt have sold between 600 and 700 tons of wheat this year but Reno has not sent them a pound of flour, in exchange. They buy it in Sacramento because it comes a little cheaper to them. How long the Reno mill will buy their wheat and pay the highest price for it, when they do not buy a sack of flour depends upon the generosity of the mill company which Mr. Beck represents, for wheat can be shipped up from California cheaper than it can be bought and shipped from Lovelocks. It can be laid down from California for from $60 to $62.50 a ton and it costs from $65 to $67 from Lovelocks. Mr. Beck said his company brought three cars of

THE BEST SEED WHEAT

Over last year and sold it for $1 70 per hundred. He told the farmers that he would buy all they raised at that price if it was as good as the seed. Many broke up alfalfa ground and raised wheat, all of which he bought. The farmers are well satisfied and say they will double the acreage in wheat next season.

Mr. Beck said that with the present rates of freight on flour from Sacramento to points in Nevada he could not ship flour. With free rates he could just get in, but unless the railroad company raised its rate from Sacramento to Lovelocks and points east he could not sell flour.

The flour rate from Sacramento to Truckee is 69 cents a hundred; Sacramento to Reno, 60 cents; Reno to Lovelocks, 70 cents; Sacramento to Lovelocks, 72 cents. The price of wheat in Reno is now $1 66, and in Sacramento $1 33. The mill here pays out over $200,000 a year, besides running expenses of $20 a day. Hon. P. N. Marker of Lovelocks said if

THE PRESENT MARKET

For wheat at Reno is sustained his valley would have as many thousand people in five years as it now has hundreds. Settlers are coming in, and he has already rented about 3,000 acres of land in lots of from 80 to 160 acres to grain growers. He says he could lease as much more if he could guarantee the market for wheat. He gives all the crop the first year and three-fourths of it the second and third years. Land now idle is thus made productive and every industry developed. Farmers there cannot make wheat pay at less than $25 a ton delivered on the cars.

Mr. Bender, cashier of the First National Bank, said he would loan money on wheat stored in the new warehouse at Reno to the extent of business safety. Parties shipping here could get loans, and Mr. Marker was told that he could assure his tenants and others that the bank would loanon wheat when they would not on anything else. Wheat and wool will be made the features of the new warehouse.

The Manager reported that he had mailed about 1,000 copies of

MR. NEWLANDS' PAMPHLET

On irrigation and water storage, and that the demand still continued.

He has arranged for the trip of Wm. Ham Hall, the eminent engineer, to survey storage sites on the Humboldt and will accompany him. He expects Mr. Hall in a few days.

B. Marks, the colonization agent, is working on a plan to bring settlers to Nevada. He was met at Elko last week and expects to come to Nevada in a short time to study the ground.

The committee on creamery made a partial report, which was quite favorable. Several parties are looking into the matter with them with a view to engage in the operation.

Mr. Beck and others reported conversations with special agents of the Southern Pacific who were sent here with orders to see what branches of business could be encouraged and made special subjects of the hay, grain, mutton and wool business.

The meeting was not closed, as it was desired to call it together in case Senators Jones and Stewart and Congressmen Bartine can be present at any time in the near future.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence.

Yesterday was as clear as a bell.

The Elko Free Press has discontinued as a daily publication.

Read the 50-cent ad. of situations wanted by a man and wife, both first-class cooks.

If any country on earth can produce finer fall weather than Nevada can, let it be shown up.

Ben Payne, a former resident of Elko, has been elected Sheriff of White Pine county.

The entire Republican State ticket has been elected with the exception of one of the District Judges.

The GAZETTE'S increased telegraph service makes it by large odds the best paper published in the State.

Charles Pohl and John A. Fitzgerald drew the watches at Hyman's Fredrick's drawing Saturday evening.

A. T. Rice, the milk (and water) man, has a new cap. It was built in St. Louis and is a thing of beauty.

Isaac Griswold of Ruby Valley loaded at Elko Saturday two cars of horses, which he will ship to Alabama for a market.

The latest news indicates that Elko county Republicans elected the full ticket with the exception of Clerk and two Commissioners.

Horace Greeley's daughter says a man who will borrow a newspaper when he is able to buy one, will talk through his nose to save his teeth.

It is now almost sure that Hon. A. L. Fitzgerald has been elected one of the District Judges, and it looks as though Hon. A. E. Cheney was the defeated Republican.

The GAZETTE job office is in receipt of a large quantity of stationery, direct from Worcester, Mass., and is prepared to do the finest job work on the shortest possible notice.

NORTHERN CATTLE.

The Surprise Valley Country Short of Beef as Compared With Former Years.

Dr. Patterson had a band of 500 beef cattle—75 cows and 475 steers—arrive from the northern country last Friday. They are for sale.

Ayers & Poor have a drove of 300 head to arrive Tuesday or Wednesday, and R. W. Minto has 150 that will be here in a week or ten days. These lots, with about 100 head to come in from Jess Valley, will about clean up the fall cattle from the Surprise Valley country. The stockmen of that section have plenty of hay this season and will feed some at home. Dr. Patterson will feed at his home ranch about 400 head, which will be driven this way during the winter or early spring.

Friday Night.

The Aamold Concert Company will appear here on Friday next. Herr Aamold, the great violinist and Louis Elbel, the child pianist, are said to be artists. They come highly recommended by the press. The Chicago Tribune says: "The Aamold Concert Company appeared in our city before a large audience. The company is composed of artists of more than the average merits. Herr Aamold with his skillful manipulation of the bow won universal applause from the audience, and we can safely pronounce him one of the best artists of the new school."

Seats now on sale at Hodgkinson's drug store.

They will be quartered at the Palace Hotel and successfully treat any disease of the eye, ear, nose or throat that our people may be afflicted with. Diseases of women and children a specialty. Consultation will be free to all, so improve the opportunity and go and see what is the matter with you.

The Outlook for Hay.

From present indications there will not be much hay left over next spring. There will be a good many cattle fed here this winter and for most of the surplus a market can be worked up in California. The low rate given by the Southern Pacific Company will help clean up the crop of 1890.

Mutton for San Francisco.

Tom Nelson of Stone House stopped over here yesterday with ten cars containing 1,000 head of sheep, for rest and feed. They are consigned to San Francisco and go forward to-night. Mention is now quoted at eight cents per pound there.

A Clerks League.

Many of the clerks in the different branches of business met yesterday and organized the Reno Clerks League. Nearly all of the business men have agreed to close their stores at eight o'clock each evening and the clerks are anxious to see that they live up to their agreement.

Roadsters and Carriage Horses.

It is said Governor Stanford will probably import twenty Orloff mares from Russia to breed at Palo Alto to a trotting stallion for the purpose of getting roadsters and cariage drivers.

Getting Along Nicely.

Miss Maggie Mayberry, who on Saturday evening was thrown from a carriage and badly bruised, is said to be getting along finely. She suffered no bone fractures or deep cuts, but was severaly shaken up.

PRACTICAL TESTS.

An Astonishing Offer—Some of the Replies.

The San Francisco papers of recent date contained the following offer:—

"As an evidence of the ability of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla to prevent sick headaches, we will give to the first twelve responsible persons who will apply at our office a bottle free if they will agree that after they have been cured that they will admit the fact over their signatures."

This offer so startlingly asserted the efficiency of the remedy that many accepted, and the letters of the parties, nearly all of whom responded, are probably the most convincing attestations that any remedy ever received. The following is a sample of those received:—

I have been subject to bilious headaches and constipation for several years past; in fact, have been compelled to take a physic every other night or else I would have a headache and dull, mean feeling. I have taken that bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, and have derived great benefit from it, and intend continuing it. After my own experience I can heartily advise those troubled with biliousness and constipation to try it. Yours, CHAS. E. ELKINGTON, 125 Locust Avenue, San Francisco

The Home Truth of Foreign Proverb.

The Spanish have a proverb—"too much is dangerous," If "brevity is the soul of wit," this means a great deal. Excesses and other imprudences in eating and drinking are productive of one tremendous evil—the progenitor of many others—and these are among the follies to which this pithy saying has direct application. The evil to which we allude is digestion, to the relief and cure of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has contributed more than any medicine which science has given to the American people. This invigorating stomachic and corrective is the means not only of reforming a disordered or enfeebled condition of the digestive organs, but of renewing healthy action of the bowels and liver. Besides this it counteracts a tendency to rheumatism and kidney complaint, extirpates and prevents malarious disease, is a potent restorative of strength which is failing, hastens convalescence and mitigates the infirmities of age.

QUEER WESTERN DUELS.

Curiosities of the Code of Honor on the Mexican Frontier.

Hard Fights for Life with the Lasso—Some of Farmer Peel's Notorious Achievements—Encounters on the Comstock—Underground Fights.

The riata duel is not a new thing on the Mexican frontier. Indeed, there is hardly a big cattle range anywhere that has not its stories of hard fights with the lasso. Such duels are bound to be fierce. But so skillful and quick do these rope-throwers become that such a duel not unfrequently lasts for hours.

Probably the best-remembered fight of this sort, says the San Francisco Examiner, was that between a Texan known as Kid Long and a little Mexican who was only spoken of as "Gabilan"—hawk—on the great Lievre range. They circled around each other, dodging the rapid throws from ten in the morning until after sunset. When the horses had almost given out the Texan threw at his adversary, who threw back so that his noose passed right over the other man's lasso and hand and caught him fair around the neck and under the armpit. In almost no time Kid was out of his saddle and being dragged over the ground at a rate that knocked the life out of him before he had gone a hundred yards.

The West, during its wild and woolly days, and the Mexican frontier have had many remarkable duels. That between "Farmer" Peel and a soldier near one of the forts in Utah is among the classics of the field of honor—or what has answered for that in the cow towns and mining camp. The weapons were rifles, revolvers and bowie-knives. The principals were placed on opposite sides of a hillock, around which ran a road, and started to meet. The curve of the hill prevented their seeing one another until they were within a hundred yards. As soon as they saw one another they both fired. Though part of the rim of Peel's hat was cut off and the soldier's sleeve was pierced, neither was hurt. Then they pulled their pistols and advanced, firing. Both dropped badly wounded when less than twenty yards separated them. They lay there squirming and shooting until both had emptied their weapons. Peel was desperately hurt, and his adversary had one ball through the stomach and several others distributed all over his anatomy. When they could shoot no more they lay for a short time swearing. Then Peel, who was so badly hurt that he could not advance even on his hands and knees, began to wriggle toward the fallen soldier. He pulled himself along with his elbows, and with his one uninjured hand finished the soldier with his bowie-knife.

Farmer Peel already had the biggest private graveyard of any man in the vicinity. This encounter spread his fame all over the coast, and when he went over to Nevada he received everywhere the homage of lesser knights.

They have lots of deadly encounters up there on the Comstock. There was one a number of years ago fought over half a mile underground. According to the evidence given at the inquest by the survivor, the two miners were working alone in a drift. They were rivals for the affections of a woman, and in a quarrel one made a drive at the other with his candlestick. A miner's candlestick consists of a metal socket attached to a sharp steel spike, so that it can be stuck in the face of the drift anywhere. The second miner defended himself with his candlestick, and there, thousands of feet under the ground, they wrestled and stabbed until one's life was gone. As they did not come up when they should have gone off shift others went down in search of them. They found one dead and the other unconscious through loss of blood. The jury, of course, had to take the survivor's story of the affair, and he was acquitted.

A little blind canyon in the Sierra Madre used to furnish the Apaches with the means of formally settling their disputes. This gulch is fairly alive with rattlesnakes. When two bucks had a quarrel that they did not wish to settle off hand they repaired to this gully, and while the remainder of the tribe stood around and watched from the hills on either side, the combatants went together to where the serpents were thickest. There, stark naked and weaponless, they would wrestle. This would wake up every rattler in the glen. The aim of each was to force the other on to the angry snakes. It was not unusual for both to be bitten while they struggled and rolled among the rocks. Each was bound to remain and wrestle as long as his adversary had life or strength enough to struggle with him.

A most remarkable duel was fought at Las Carnitas, N. M., many years ago. An undersized stranger came to the town and picked a quarrel with "Handsome Harry," a gambler renowned as a dead shot. They got out into the road and both fell mortally wounded. It was discovered that the stranger was a woman, and though she never spoke after she fell, the story became known that she was a sister of a girl whom "Handsome Harry" had wronged years before.

Calculation on a Potato.

Did you ever calculate the value of a single potato on the basis that the single tuber was the only one left in the world? That one would, of course, contain within itself the possibility of restocking the world with a valuable article of food. If one potato would produce, when planted, but 10 potatoes, in ten years the total product of that one potato would be 10,000,000,000 which would stock the whole world with seed. If the world were reduced to one single potato, it would be better that London or Chicago be blotted from the earth than for that one tuber to be lost.—St. Louis Republic.

Tarring and Feathering.

The custom of tarring and feathering did not, as is generally supposed, have its origin in America, but in one of "the stately homes of England." A gentleman, who had drunk not wisely but too well, was attired by his friends in that manner, when in an insensible condition; on waking in the morning and surveying himself in the pier glass, he imagined himself to have undergone a metamorphosis. "As I live," he said, "a bird."

THE ABLE BLACKSNAKE.

He Is a Bad Fighter from Away Back and Fears Nobody.

Ask any of the farmers or hunters in this part of Monroe County whether they are afraid of rattlesnakes, says a Canadensis (Pa.) correspondent of the New York Sun, and they will answer promptly that they don't mind them very much. Ask them if they fear blacksnakes, and they will say yes without the slightest hesitation. This fear of blacksnakes has come down to most of them from their parents with a story that none of them is ever tired of telling. They all declare that it is true, and it is so well known and is told with so much solemnity and evident fear by the natives that it is hard to disbelieve it. The story runs like this:

Many years ago a well-to-do farmer lived with his family near the barren land verging on Pike County. His wife was city bred and unused to many of the hardships that are a part of the farming woman's life. She was strong and hardy, however, with plenty of nerve and grit enough to make the best of things. One day, while her husband was working in a clearing a good distance from the house, she went down to the spring for a pail of water. As she stooped over to fill the pail a blacksnake, that had been lying coiled near the spring, jumped at her. She screamed and jumped back, but the snake had buried its fangs in her dress, and before she could recover herself sufficiently to shake him off he had wound himself about her so tightly as to prevent her from walking. Then he began slowly to crawl upward. The poor woman struck at the snake with her hands.

They were badly bitten, but she was so overcome with fright that she did not mind this, and kept on striking at him. The serpent kept crawling up until his coils were about her breast. She tried to tear him loose, but she was not strong enough. She became nearly paralyzed by terror. The snake finally coiled himself around her neck and choked her. She started toward the house, but she had only gone a short distance when she fell. In the evening she was found by her husband lying dead, with the snake still coiled about her neck.

This story, with the well-known fact that a blacksnake is ever ready and willing to fight any thing that lives, makes the native afraid of him, and the man who kills a blacksnake is thought to have won a greater battle than the slayer of a dozen rattlesnakes.

"You can't frighten a blacksnake," said one old hunter, "and the more you try to the more he ain't frightened. A rattlesnake is a coward, and will run if you give him half a chance. If he doesn't get the chance he will rattle in fear, and then strike in desperation. A rattlesnake's bite is not nearly so dangerous as many people suppose. All that you have to do to render the wound harmless is to cut it as deep as the fangs went, and then go to the nearest brook and wash it thoroughly. A common poultice will soon heal the wound made by your knife. But if a big blacksnake tackles you, and you give him the chance to get one coil about your body, why, then, look out, for it is your life or his."

HOW DID IT FEED?

Perhaps It Got Its Board Out of the Log That Surrounded It.

The following, says the Chattanooga News, is related by Frank Wyatt, of Rome, Ga., who has been visiting relatives at Martindale, on the Chattanooga, Rome & Columbus railroad, about thirty miles south of Chattanooga. Frank used to attend Sunday-school regularly and is considered a truthful boy, without much mulhattonism flowing in his veins. He says:

"My cousin owns a watermill, and in removing some obstructions found an immense log imbedded in the stream, which must have been submerged for a number of years. The log had to be cut in two to remove it, and much to our surprise we found it hollow, although it had every appearance of being solid. One of the negroes while examining the log looked into the hollow and thought he saw something moving. He began using his axe and soon had the log cut into in another place.

"Imagine our amazement when we discovered a live catfish which had grown to an enormous size and length, and was so completely wedged in the hollow as to be unable to move except to open its mouth and wiggle its tail. The fish was very lively and apparently in the enjoyment of exceellent health.

"The question is how did the fish get into the log, as the only means of ingress or egress we could discover was a small, round hole not more than two inches in diameter. We surmised that he must have entered the little opening when no larger than a minnow and grown great in his solitary confinement."

A Tall Man Settles Down.

J. W. Patterson, the tallest man known in the world excepting the Chinese giant Chang, will make Oklahoma City his home. Mr. Patterson stands 7 feet 7 inches in his stocking feet and is twenty-seven years old. He has traveled with a number of the best shows in the country for the last eight or ten years and is well fixed in this world's goods. About a year ago he married and has decided to settle down and take life easy. He owns considerable property in this city, says the Oklahoma Chief, and as soon as he returns from the East, will begin the erection of a fine residence. A couple of months ago his wife presented him with a pair of strapping boys, of which Mr. Patterson is immensely boastful. Mrs. Patterson is larger than the average woman, being nearly six feet high and weighing over 200 pounds.

Compliment to His Dog.

A very delicate compliment was lately bestowed by a dog-lover upon the intelligence of his Skye terrier. The owner of the dog was sitting in his office, apparently alone, when an acquaintance entered. "Glad to find you alone," said the visitor, "because I have a confidential communication to make to you, which no one else must hear." "Hold on a minute," said the other, checking him; and then he called out: "Here, Spot!" A small terrier crawled out from under the table, wagging his tail. "Go out, Spot," said his master. The dog went out. "Now, then," said the owner, "you may go on with your confidential communication. We are alone."

And see my eyes grow bright as tho' I bathed
In the immortal fount De Leon sought
In vain in Florida's peaceful shades.
I oft have heard my married sisters say [tion
That good old Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescrip-
Would bring back color to a faded cheek—
Restore the health of one who fain would die
To rid herself of all the pain she feels."

The aforesaid spinster took the remedy—and forthwith took a husband also, having regained her health and blooming beauty.
